ARBITRATORS in the collision of the propeller Gaylord and the towboat D. T. Lane, last November, near Ashland, Ky., by which the Gaylord was sunk, found the Gaylord was to blame, and exonerate the owners of the Lane from all damage.

In a recent analysis at New York of twenty-nine samples of quinine pills and capsules not one contained the amount of that article called for by the label, though some of them came near it. In two instances the so-called quinine proved to be cinchonidia, one of the lower and weaker alkaloids from cinchona bark. It is important, especially in fevers, that the quality, quantity, and strength of quinine should be unimpeachable.

SOME of the farmers in the New England states make it a business to prepare each year ensilage for their stock and have usually been very successful. It is a simple process and preserves perfectly corn stalks hay and other crops that are consumed by stock. An enterprising New Yorker, however, has procured a patent for moistening corn stalks, straw and other dry, or partly dry substances, before or after they are put into a silo. The claim is a very broad one, it embraces, wetting, moistening, sprinkling or saturating dry or partially dry vegetable substances by means of water or steam, before or after they are cut or before or after they are put into a silo. A silo is simply a hole in the ground wherein ensilage is made by a certain process; and this ensilage is said to be of great value to farmers. To deprive farmers of the privilege of wetting corn stalks or whatever substances they may wish to use, before putting them in the silo is not only silly and ridiculous but is an imposition against which they have a right to protest. Doubtless thousands of farmers have been doing it all along without even having thought of applying for a patent. This enterprising New York genius might now very properly obtain a patent for sprinkling flower beds and gardens. We suppose that farmers must build roofs over their piles of stalks to keep off the rain, or else postpone putting the stuff into the silos until it gets dry. Or if a wetting from on high does not come within the meaning of the patent, they must either wait for showers before preparing silos, or pay for the privilege of applying water. It is an intolerable fraud on the farming community.

PILE! PILE! PILE!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breaking, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.
